Dear Sir/Madam,

I am writing in relation to the review of the Anti-Discrimination Act.

I am concerned that certain minorities and people's groups will be disadvantaged by these changes. I'm a practicing Christian and although I am aware that other people have the right to different religious or cultural views to me, I believe that the views of certain groups are overriding other's views. Soon I feel that people who have different approaches to life will be disadvantaged or will be harassed and if the law is changed fined or worse.

I ask you to please not change or weaken our right to express our beliefs corporately.

Also I would ask that you do not change the law so that parents can not bring their children up and educate their children according to their values and beliefs.

Yours sincerely,
